

In the interest of society

How can Elia guarantee round-the-clock, year-round power for my business?

How can I be sure I'm in the best role at every stage of my career?

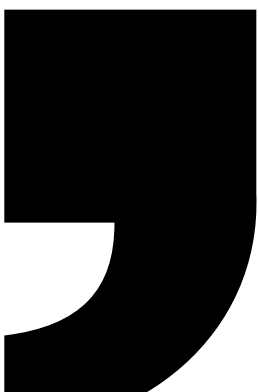

At Elia Group, we are helping to make the energy transition happen. That involves many challenges. We are delivering the transmission infrastructure of the future. We are having to rethink our infrastructure and the way we keep the electricity system balanced, with safety as a top priority. We are also helping the market to evolve by developing new tools and processes, and strengthening our collaborations with all market players.

The energy world is changing. New technologies and societal developments are emerging every day. The Elia Group incorporates these elements into its strategy and is already developing new methods to upgrade its grid, taking the latest trends into account.

We anticipate the needs of society and the expectations of our stakeholders and we make sure we are ready to take on new tasks - all this while maintaining an affordable, reliable and secure grid. Put simply: at Elia Group, we work in the interest of society.
